I Before departure

What must be in order before boarding.

Passport and visa

Travellers must hold a valid passport with at least two blank pages; ideally, it should be valid for 3 to 6 months beyond the scheduled date of entry.

A visa is required for nationals of countries not exempt from this requirement. Applications must be submitted prior to departure, primarily online via Chad's official e-Visa platform. Nationals of 23 countries are exempt from visa requirements for short stays, generally up to 90 days.

For reference, a 15-day short-stay visa costs 41,600 XAF, approximately €65. Relevant participants are advised to complete the necessary formalities before travelling.

Please note: the abolition of visa requirements for African nationals has been announced, effective 1 January 2027.

Visas are not issued at the border; formalities must be completed before travelling.

Passport validity	3 to 6 months beyond the date of entry
Blank pages	2 minimum required at control
15-day short-stay visa	41 600 XAF approximately €65

Vaccination and health

The yellow fever vaccine is mandatory for travellers aged 9 months and older. Participants are advised to check the validity of their international vaccination certificate and update it if necessary. Border health authorities require presentation of the certificate upon arrival. Ebola screening is in place at arrivals.

Other vaccinations, specifically against typhoid fever, hepatitis, and meningitis, may be recommended depending on individual circumstances and the advice of a primary care physician or a travel medicine clinic.

Malaria poses a year-round risk in Chad, particularly due to the presence of Plasmodium falciparum.

Personalized malaria prophylaxis is recommended prior to travel and for the two weeks following return. Additional personal protection measures, such as sprays, creams, and mosquito nets, are also recommended.

Participants are advised to bring an adequate supply of their regular medications for the entire duration of the trip and to carry copies of prescriptions for any essential treatments.

In case of fever or any significant health concern during or after the trip, prompt medical attention is recommended, and healthcare providers should be informed of the recent visit to Chad.

Yellow fever certificate required from 9 months of age. Ebola screening is in place at arrivals.

Insurance and essential documents

Participants should ensure they have adequate travel and medical insurance, including medical assistance or evacuation where required by their organization's policies.

Essential documents and items should be kept in hand luggage, including the passport, visa or e-Visa, vaccination certificate, travel documents, hotel confirmation, insurance details, essential medication, mission focal point's contact information, and secure digital copies of important documents.

Any specific needs, including mobility, dietary, medical, or logistical requirements, should be communicated to the organizing committee before departure to ensure appropriate arrangements.

II Arriving in N'Djamena

Airport reception, transfers and accommodation.

Entry formalities

Upon arrival at the airport, the State Protocol and the Protocol of the Ministry of Public Health and Prevention will assist participants with entry formalities and passport control, in coordination with immigration services.

Participants are requested to submit, in advance, a copy of the identification page of their passport, together with their complete travel itinerary, flight number, and arrival time.

They are also advised to keep their passport, vaccination certificate, and, where applicable, e-Visa or travel authorization readily accessible and with them throughout the mission.

Transfers and travel

Upon arrival in N'Djamena, vehicles provided by the State Protocol and Technical and Financial Partners, specifically WHO, UNICEF, and UNFPA, will be available to transport participants to their hotels and for meetings. Similar arrangements will be made for transporting participants from their hotels to the airport upon departure.

Protocol will support this visit to ensure no traffic delays or entry refusals to public sites.

To facilitate logistical planning and the coordination of transfers, participants are requested to submit their travel itineraries, including arrival and departure times, as soon as possible.

For official segments, transportation will be organized in convoy.

Report to the designated assembly point at least five minutes before the scheduled departure time.

Accommodation

Accommodation for all mission participants has been arranged by the organizing committee at the Hôtel La Résidence de N'Djamena, located at Rue 1039, Quartier Aéroport, BP 5897, in the immediate vicinity of Hassan Djamous International Airport and Avenue Charles de Gaulle, from 30 August to 1 September. Breakfast is included.

The cost, estimated at 101,000 XAF, approximately 150 USD per night, is to be borne by the mission participants. Each participant will receive an individual booking confirmation. Any changes must be requested via email to reservation@la-residence-hotel.com, quoting the individual booking code.

Check-in begins at 2:00 p.m.; early check-in is not possible. For participants arriving earlier, specifically those flying with RAM or ASKY, an additional night can be arranged. Late check-out is available until 2:00 p.m.

Rate	101 000 XAF ≈ 150 USD per night, breakfast included
Arrival	Check-in 2:00 p.m. Early check-in not possible
Departure	Until 2:00 p.m. Late check-out available

III The course of the mission

Venues, timings, security and expected dress.

Venues and timings

The high-level mission will take place from August 30 to September 1, 2026, in N'Djamena, Chad.

The mission's meetings and activities will be held at the following venues, among others:

- Ministry of Public Health and Prevention
- Presidency of the Republic
- Ministry of Finance, Budget, Economy, Planning and International Cooperation
- World Health Organization offices

A detailed itinerary for the mission will be shared with participants, while hotel departure times will be communicated daily. Participants are requested to strictly adhere to the scheduled times to ensure the smooth running of the programme and protocol-related activities.

All official activities should be completed by 11 a.m. on 1 September.

Security

Chad remains a high-risk destination, particularly due to the risks of crime, terrorism, civil unrest, and kidnapping. Although the security situation in N'Djamena is currently calm, conditions may change rapidly.

During missions, participants are advised to maintain a high level of vigilance, restrict movements to those that are strictly necessary, and prioritize the use of secure vehicles and pre-arranged transportation.

Photography of government buildings, military installations, security checkpoints, the airport, or other sensitive infrastructure should be avoided unless prior authorization has been obtained. Participants are also encouraged to remain vigilant in public places and to avoid openly displaying passports, mobile phones, or other valuables.

Practical guidance

- Maintain a high level of vigilance in public places
- Restrict movements to those that are strictly necessary
- Use secure vehicles and pre-arranged transportation
- Do not photograph government buildings, military installations, security checkpoints or the airport without authorization
- Avoid openly displaying passports, phones and valuables

Dress code

For an official mission to N'Djamena, it is recommended to wear understated, professional, and elegant attire suited to the heat and humidity of the rainy season.

For men, lightweight suits or professional outfits made of breathable fabric, comprising long- or short-sleeved shirts, dress trousers, and closed-toe shoes, are recommended.

The same applies to women, who should opt for suits, dress trousers, dresses, or skirts of an appropriate length, ensuring shoulders are covered.

For official audiences and ceremonies, formal and elegant attire in understated colours, paired with well-maintained, closed-toe shoes, is the preferred choice. It is advisable to avoid outfits that are overly casual, very short, or otherwise unsuitable for the protocol requirements of the occasion.

IV Practical matters

Climate, money and communications on site.

Climate

In N'Djamena, during the period from late August to early September, the climate remains hot, humid, and rainy, with temperatures generally ranging between 24 °C and 31 °C, occasionally reaching 32 °C to 34 °C. High humidity, estimated at between 73% and 79%, intensifies the feeling of heat. Despite frequent rainfall, the city generally enjoys 9 to 10 hours of sunshine per day.

Temperatures	24 – 31 °C up to 34 °C on some days
Humidity	73–79% rainy season
Sunshine	9 – 10 h / day despite frequent rainfall

Banking and currency

The official currency of Chad is the Central African CFA franc (XAF). ATMs are available in N'Djamena and generally allow withdrawals using debit cards. Visa and Mastercard cards are accepted, although card payments are limited to certain establishments: hotels, certain restaurants, and shops.

It is therefore recommended to carry sufficient cash in CFA francs, inform your bank of your trip to avoid having your card blocked, and check the applicable fees.

Electricity and connectivity

Chad primarily uses Type C and Type E electrical outlets, with a power supply of 220 V and 50 Hz. Participants are advised to bring a universal travel adapter and a fully charged power bank.

Mobile and Internet services are available in N'Djamena, although coverage and connection quality may vary. Internet access is generally available at hotels and meeting venues. Participants should consider arranging a backup connectivity solution, in line with their organization's IT security policies. Starlink is also approved and used to support local Internet connectivity.

The contact details of the logistics and protocol focal point should be saved on participants' phones and kept in hard copy as a backup.

Countries exempt from visa requirements for Chad

Twenty-three countries, for short stays.

Barbade, Bénin, Bermudes, Cameroun, Congo, Côte d'Ivoire, Dominique, Gabon, Gambie, Guinée-Équatoriale, Île Maurice, Îles Cook, Malaisie, Mali, Micronésie, Niger, Nigéria, République centrafricaine, Rwanda, Saint-Vincent-et-les-Grenadines, Singapour, Surinam, Togo.

As entry and visa exemption requirements for Chad may change, participants are advised to verify their individual status before departure through the official e-Visa platform or by contacting a Chadian embassy or consulate.
